

An application of limits

After completing this section, students should be able to do the following.

- Compute limits of families of functions.
- Compute average velocity.
- Approximate instantaneous velocity.
- Compare average and instantaneous velocity.
- Plot difference quotients for varying approximations of the instantaneous rate of change.